

Lee Daniel

Lee Daniel is a performer and educator in Los Angeles with fourteen years of experience both professionally and in the studio. Being cast in the Monsters of Hip Hop Show in 2006 served as a major springboard for his success and since then, Lee has established himself as one of the most unique and vibrant educators in the Los Angeles scene. He is a featured instructor at the famous Debbie Reynolds Legacy Studio, Movement Lifestyle, and TMillyTV, as well as a faculty member for the Monsters of HipHop A-List Convention.

Lee is no stranger to the stage. He has worked and toured with artists including Ariana Grande, Jason Derulo, Selena Gomez, JLo, Usher and many more. Most recently he worked as a featured dancer on the new hit Netflix Show Soundtrack. In addition to this, Lee is currently a co-choreographer for KidZBop on their last three tours and music videos. Most recently, he was a co-choreographer on Season 2 of The Masked Singer.

Magnetic grooves and an eclectic fluidity are a few ways to describe Lee's style and he challenges you to translate dynamic rhythms seamlessly into your performance. He loves to reference his HipHop, Jazz/Funk, House, and Commercial dance background, offering diversity in the foundation of his choreography. Lee aims for you to leave the classroom with a new perspective and connection to your own unique artistic value.

Annie Gratton

Annie Gratton is a professional dancer, choreographer, and teacher based in Los Angeles, California. She has worked with choreographers such as Tyce Diorio, Marguerite Derricks, and Mandy Moore.
